

GOOD MORNING VIETNAM!...

I mean West Virginia Goers,

As your duly appointed grand poobah and keeper of the metaphorical keys for the frivolities this year, I am happy to call this email to order.

31 people have signaled their intention to camp this year and it should be a rather jolly and jovial event. As stated in one of my previous emails from days gone by, the tasting this year will be of Sake.

This year, 14 brave souls will venture down the mighty New River; their names are attached below as well as the breakdown of those coming to camp as I am aware of it. Prices are also below.

You can pay me with a check in camp since I was a goober and didn't send this out in a timely fashion. Additionally, I'll be getting a Venmo if there is sufficient interest in paying me that way. If you are getting a cool gift and not camping I will send out a mailing address at a later date so that it can be sent to me and I can send your cool gift.

I will be intense for those in nonpayment, and use shame if necessary.

I have no theme in mind for this year so come as you are, which is hopefully comfortable.

It likely need not be said, but be diligent in your preparations for this venture to yonder Hico for camping.
